

The U.S. Secret Service and Delaware Emergency Management Agency, Comprehensive School Safety Program (DEMA/CSSP), in support of The Delaware Department of Education, invite you to attend a FREE event:

U.S. Secret Service Research and Guidance on Behavioral Threat Assessment in K-12 Schools

This is NOT active shooter response training

For over 20 years, the U.S. Secret Service National Threat Assessment Center (NTAC) has conducted research on the thinking and behavior of those who commit acts of targeted violence, in an effort to prevent future tragedies from occurring. Key findings from this research indicate that establishing multidisciplinary threat assessment teams and encouraging the reporting of concerning behaviors are critical steps in the prevention of targeted violence.

This presentation will provide an overview of NTAC studies examining past incidents of targeted school violence, as well as plots that were successfully averted. The training will also outline the behavioral threat assessment process, including best practices for proactively identifying, assessing, and intervening with a student who may pose a risk of harm to themselves or others.

This event is intended for educators, law enforcement, and other public safety professionals. All attendees must pre-register two weeks prior to the course date.
